

WWF INDIVIDUAL GRANT RECOMMENDATION

Spring 2011

Because large grants make the most impact, we encourage you to consider recommending your $1,000 grant to a single organization. You may, however, recommend grants of $500 each to two organizations.

Important information regarding your Individual Grant:

The Foundation's board of directors reviews and makes a final approval on all recommendations. Grants may not be made to fulfill pledges, membership levels or to any organization that gains a benefit for the donor. If a recommendation is not received by August 31, 2011 your individual grant funds will be considered a generous contribution to the Annual Fund of WWF.

NEW Grant Initiatives

As outlined in the strategic plan, the Foundation has launched three new grant committees. Each has a small pool of funds to award to a single grantee in the area of International, Diversity and Innovation. Members who are interested in participating on any of these committees in 2011 (or interested in adding to the funding pool for any of these) are asked to make a financial contribution of at least $500, either by recommending an individual grant or through an additional personal contribution. These funds go directly to the organizations chosen for grants.

In addition, there are two other prerequisites for joining a Partner Grant Committee: prior experience on the WWF Grant Committee and a commitment to attend all of the pre-scheduled committee meetings. Please contact the WWF office for more details.
